The Chicago papers tell of a 70 year old man who left that town on a bicycle and made 205 miles in less than two days. He seems to have been in a hurry to get away from Chicago. He was lucky in having a bicycle. Some [illegible] tramp or commit suicide to get away from it.

An old Ohio Democrat who in 1896 swore he would neither shave nor have his hair cut until Bryan is elected President put in an appearance at a Democratic meeting in Chillicothe, a short while ago, with hair enough on him to stuff a mattress. He hopes to get a hair cut and shave next month.

SPORT ON THE GRIDIRON.

It Is Very Probable Another Strong Foot Ball Eleven Will Be Organized in the Near Future.

There has been considerable talk of late among the foot ball enthusiasts concerning the reorganization of the Wilmington Foot Ball team and it is very probable that definite steps will be taken in that direction within the next few days. There is ample material in Wilmington for a first class team and there is no reason why it should not be formed.

Nearly every member of last year's team can be drawn together and there are several other pigskin pushers in the city who would make valuable acquisitions to the team. Among the players on the '99 team the following are willing to don their uniforms for another season: Hatch, McMillan, Sinclair and Brunson, behind the line, and Savage, Watson, Wannamaker and Wenberg in the line. Dawson Latham and Frank Turrentine, who were two of Horner's crack players last year, will also make good men behind the line. Aside from the candidates for positions on the Tileston Athletic Association's team, there is still some good material which is available.

There is plenty of room for both teams and several fine games should be played here this Fall. This is the season for bushy heads and chrysanthemums, and the sport on the gridiron is growing in interest weekly.

ABOUT ELECTION REGISTRATION.

Books Will Open Monday Week—No Entirely New Registration.

In answer to numerous inquiries which have come to State Democratic headquarters, it is stated for the benefit of election officers throughout the State that registration for the November election will commence on Monday, the 23d day of October, and that registration will close at sunset on Saturday night, the 27th day of October. On Saturday of closing the registration the registrar must attend at the polling place with his registration books so that persons may register there if they desire to do so. On other days he may register persons qualified to register at any place in his precinct.

The same pollholders and registrars who held the August election are required to hold the November election, and any vacancies are to be filled exactly as they were filled in that election.

In all respects as to time and place of holding the election in November the same law prevails, the polls being opened at sunrise and closing at sunset, and the voting being done at the present voting precincts unless they are altered by the county board of elections.

There is no new registration for the election this year only for those who have become qualified since or who failed to register during the period of registration for the State election.

SPLENDID CHARITY HOSPITAL.

The Hunter McGuire Memorial Annex to Virginia Institute at Richmond.

A correspondent of the STAR writing from the University College of Medicine, Richmond, Va., has the following interesting news to many North Carolinians:

"The large addition we are now making to the Virginia Hospital is to be devoted exclusively to charity work. It is called The Hunter McGuire Memorial Annex, in honor of the distinguished Virginian, who so lately passed from among us, and who frequently said his best claim to be remembered by posterity, would be that he was the founder of the University College of Medicine and of the Virginia Hospital. As his fame and his charities were not limited to Richmond or to Virginia, it is intended that the benefits of this splendid charity hospital shall not be confined to Richmond. All the South shall share in it.

"And I do not hesitate to ask you to call the attention of your readers to it, for it may be a blessing to some poor sufferer within the sphere of your influence.

"The hospital; which is undergoing these alterations and additions, is now open for a limited number of patients; it will be ready for its usual number by October 15th. The Hunter McGuire Memorial Annex will be completed by January 1st next. All communications with respect to treatment at the hospital should be addressed to Mr. Edgar D. Taylor, President, Richmond, Va.; all requests for information about the College to Dr. J. Allison Hodges, Dean, Richmond, Va."

D., was the officiating clergyman. Many friends were present with the family to pay a sad tribute of respect. The remains were interred in Oakdale cemetery.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. Ed. Burkheimer, Anson Alligood, Julian K. Taylor, Tom Powers, B. C. Moore and R. H. Pickett.

Eastern Baptist Association.

Rev. R. H. Herring and Mr. L. Curtis, of Southside Baptist Church, and Revs. L. B. Boney and J. H. Hildreth, of Wilmington, are in attendance upon the meeting of the Eastern Baptist Association with the church at Mount Olive. Good reports will be made from all the Wilmington churches.

CLAIMS DAMAGE OF R. R. CO.

Brick layer, Who Sues for Alleged Delay in Transportation of Tools.

An interesting case was heard in Justice Fowler's court yesterday involving the liability of a railroad company for damages in the event of delay in transportation of working men's tools and the like.

The action was brought by Mr. A. S. King against the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company and the contentions of the plaintiff are that some time ago he shipped from Jacksonville, Fla., to this city a quantity of household and kitchen furniture including a number of brick-layer's tools, the use of which he has been denied, he alleges, from the tardiness of the railroad company in unloading the property from its cars in this city into the warehouse where it could be delivered to the consignee.

He claims damages for non-employment during several days time when he had no tools. The amount asked for is $30.75.

Justice Fowler reserved his decision in the case until to-day.

ROBERT DOWNING COMING.

Supported by An Excellent Company in "Richard the Lion Hearted."

The appearance of that sterling actor, Robert Downing, at the Wilmington Opera House on next Friday night will undoubtedly prove one of the events of the season. The play for his engagement here will be "Richard the Lion Hearted," which will be given with all the wealth of scenery, properties and costumes given to it in the Eastern cities. Mr. Downing will be supported by a company (said to be the strongest in point of excellence in the country) which includes Miss Alberta Converse, his leading lady, who, the critics say, combines the beauty, talent and magnetism of Mary Anderson with the sweetness of Adelaide Neilson; also Charles D. Herman, who last season was the principal support of Frederick Warde, and who formerly was leading man for Mme. Modjeska. That lovers of tragedy will appreciate this treat goes without saying, and that a crowded house awaits the appearance of this company is equally an assured fact.

Sale of reserved seats begins tomorrow morning at Gerken's.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

Reorganization Meeting Held Yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. Parlors.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association met at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to organize for the Fall and Winter. Mrs. A. J. Howell, the president, presided at the meeting. Miss Clara Woodward was re-elected secretary, and Miss Blanche Fentress was elected treasurer. The election of president and vice presidents and the appointment of committees were deferred until November 13th, the time named for the next regular meeting.

Plans were discussed for assisting in the new membership contest which is now attracting so much attention in the entire community. There was also an important discussion of the plans for the banquet, which the auxiliary will give on the occasion of the closing of the contest.

New Wilmington Attorney.

A. R. Dunning, Esq., of Aulander, Bertie county, N. C., who successfully passed the Supreme Court examination in September, has arrived to begin the practice of his profession in Wilmington. He is at present in the office of John H. Gore, Jr., Esq.

OPERA HOUSE SCENERY.

New York Artist Here to Contribute to the Decided Improvements Going on at Wilmington's Theatre.

Along with the very decided improvements which are being made by the city to the Opera House building, comes the announcement of Mr. S. A. Schloss, manager and lessee, that he has engaged the services of a first class artist to paint new scenery, etc., for the stage and that upon the completion of the work, Wilmington's Opera House will be second to none in appointment and equipment in the State.

Mr. J. Constantine, from the Grande Opera House of New York, arrived in the city Monday evening, and this morning he will begin work on the new scenery. The lumber is already at the Opera House and Mr. Constantine hopes to complete the work in about a month.

First of all, there will be a new drop curtain wrought in pleasing style to the eye; new proscenium and grand drapery and a handsome interior parlor scene of fourteen pieces; also, a street scene with borders and all other requisites to making the stage modern and up-to-date.

The present theatrical season opens under very favorable auspices, and Manager Schloss is exhibiting in a marked degree a great desire to please his patrons.

"ZAZA" WELL RECEIVED.

Frohman's Famous Production Presented in Artistic Manner Last Night.

Charles Frohman's famous production, "Zaza," was successfully presented at the Opera House last night to a large and appreciative audience. The piece tells the story of a vaudeville actress, who is tempted by the wiles of vice and succumbs, but ends with a fitting moral, showing that woman, at times weak and frail, is, nevertheless, in events of great moment, stronger and purer than man. It cannot be said that the play was immoral, for although the line of demarcation was at times slight, the general tone and effect of the acting were such and the climax so faultless as to carry the performance into a very elevated and refined atmosphere. All of the actors acquitted themselves well, particularly Miss Blanche Hall, who carried the title role. In style and manner she was a typical vaudeville performer and charming all the while.

Little Gladys Granger, as Toto, was very clever and dainty.

MORE ABOUT KINSAULS.

Testimony of Neighbors Tend to Corroborate Theory That He Is Alive.

The Fayetteville Observer of Monday has additional testimony relative to the supposed mysterious escape of Archie Kinsauls from death upon the gallows at Clinton two weeks ago. After publishing what the STAR had to say of his possible escape Sunday morning it adds:

"A man named Carter, who lives on the east side of the river and who knew nothing of the above report, returned from Clinton early last week, where he had been to attend the funeral of his mother, and stated to his neighbors that there was some mystery about the burial of Kinsauls. He states that, Kinsauls having been a warm friend of his, he went to his home after the hanging and offered to sit up with the corpse. His offer was politely declined, and, when he asked to see the dead friend, this was also refused, though he says he saw several physicians and others going and coming from the room in which the body lay. He asked about the funeral but got no satisfactory answer. He came home fully convinced that there was a mystery somewhere in the case."

Approaching Marriage.

Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Annie Stemmerman to Mr. E. P. H. Strunck Wednesday evening, October 17th, at 6 o'clock, at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church. Miss Stemmerman was formerly of the faculty of St. Paul's Parochial Academy and is very popular with a wide circle of friends.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mrs. W. M. Parsley, president of Cape Fear Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. W. L. Harlowe, Mrs. M. S. Willard and Mrs. P. Pearsall left yesterday for Raleigh to attend the State convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which will convene to-day.

A WAIL FROM CHANDLER.

It seems that Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, who is a candidate for re-election, is a marked man and doomed to defeat. It seems that he has incurred the enmity of some railroad combine which is mighty in that State, and it has decreed his defeat and made its plans to compass that defeat. The origin of the war between him and that combine, or how long it has been in progress, we do not know, but the war has been going on for several years and this is the first good opportunity it has had to scalp its man. Chandler seems to anticipate the scalping, and has issued the following wail to the Republicans of his State, which reads thus:

"On the pretext that I am a silver man the Railroad Trust proclaims to the people of New Hampshire that I am not to be relied upon to help maintain a sound currency.

"This pretext is thrust forth as the sole reason why I should be defeated. The real reason, that I stand in the way of its dangerous encroachments upon public welfare, is closely muzzled.

"The Republican State Committee, of which Senator Gallinger is chairman, under direction of the combine, has invaded nearly every city and town in the State to select men for the Legislature who can be relied upon to vote against me. These men are promised money and perquisites to use in their canvass. I have reason to believe the organization of this powerful opposition is nearly perfect.

"The Republican State platform was drawn under the personal supervision of Chester B. Jordan, the Republican nominee for Governor, who prepared his acceptance speech accordingly, but into the platform after midnight, while it was in preparation for the morning's convention, was slyly interpolated a unique plank, an innovation upon any national platform, and abnormally in advance of any State platform yet adopted, providing arbitrarily against any attempt to re-establish silver as a standard money.

"This pointedly precludes bimetallism, even under any exigency emergency of nations.

"I regard the invasion of our State by the Railroad Trust with alarm. I believe it will be highly detrimental to our best interests and that it ought to be resisted by every man who has at heart the welfare of New Hampshire.

"My observation in life has taught me when men have power they are apt to use it. Give these gentlemen arbitrary power and no man, be he Democrat or Republican, can receive recognition in New Hampshire unless he wears the collar of a powerful and insolent corporation.

"To the Democrats of New Hampshire I have no right to appeal. The recollection of 40 political defeats of their party which I have labored to bring about would entitle them to resist my entreaties and to jeer at my distress on account of the moral degradation of my own party in my native state.

"But to the Republican members I have the right to appeal avoid the despair which will come to them if they vote with free passes in their pockets. If there is one of them who is willing to hang his free pass upon his breast and rise in his seat and vote with his badge of servitude in plain sight of the world!"

Addressing the Republican members of the Legislature, he says:

"Send back the passes and the mileage books. Resist all appeals from Chairman Gallinger to vote as the great railroad demands because of any moneys which the State Committee may have sent to your town or ward.

Let a New Hampshire Legislature for once resist the shameless and unscrupulous lobbying and the selfish pressure of the powerful and insolent corporation and establish and proclaim the honor and manhood of the leading and influential Republicans of the State, which Republicans you are.

"If you cannot do this, but like intoxicated dupes, are to continue to slumber in the slough and miasma of railroad corruption, do not think there will always be humiliated but faithful sons of the State to try with a mantle of excuses to cover from the gaze of the world your pitiful nakedness and to walk backward with averted gaze and hide the shame."

We are not interested in the fate of Senator Chandler, who has never done anything in his public career to win the respect much less the admiration of Democrats, especially Southern Democrats, for he has been in his time one of the most ultra and vindictive of sectional partisans. He was one of the most sneaking and malicious of the South's assailants in the Senate, and one of the last to give up the fight against this section. But there are few men in public life to-day to whom the Republican party owes as much, for he saved it when Tilden defeated Hayes, got Hayes seated by claiming South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana after the Republican National Committee had given up the election, and nearly all the leading Republicans who were figuring on the returns conceded the election of Tilden.

An inquiry suggested the possibility of holding those states, Chandler caught on to the suggesting and he and other visiting statesmen took the first trains to the "doubtful" states, and claimed them as was the intention when they started. The electoral commission, the 8 to 7 fraud was the result and Hayes the defeated, instead of Tilden the elected, became President,—"his fraudulency," "Ruther a fraud" B. Hayes, as the New York Sun, which then shown for the Democrats, but now shines for the Republicans, habitually called him. That was the work of Senator Chandler. If Tilden had gone into the Presidential chair then the Republican party would in all probability be as dead as Hector now.

A man who was such a conscienceless and unscrupulous partisan as he was has no moral right to complain against unscrupulous methods when resorted to against himself, but others who may and in all probability will become the victims of such unscrupulous methods have a right to complain and protest. But in this case there does not seem to be much disposition to complain or protest on the part of the Republicans of the Granite State. Possibly, and probably, he may have alienated them by his advocacy of bimetallism and the interest he has manifested in the coinage of silver, after his party had gone so dead against it and committed itself to the single gold standard. This is probably so, judging from his remarks on the declarations his enemies injected into the State platform, which not only antagonizes bimetallism now but forever. His advocacy of bimetallism, he says, is the pretext of the combination or railroad trust, as he calls it, for opposing him and planning his defeat by a wholesale system of corruption and bribery.

This is both a warning and a confession, a warning to the people of States in which combines exist that they will oppose any and all men whom they cannot use, and that they propose to exert all their power to control the Senate of the United States, by which they hope to prevent the enactment of legislation of which they do not approve. As one corporation says who shall or shall not go to the Senate from New Hampshire, so others in other States will say who shall or shall not go to the Senate from those States, and thus they may block legislation which the people desire even in the event they elect a Democratic President and a Democratic House of Representatives.

The Senate is largely owned and controlled by corporations now, some of the Senators being nothing more than attorneys or agents of corporations, and they do not intend to rest until the status of the Senate is defined and what they want it to be. Chandler was unorthodox on the silver question, and therefore he must go and, according to Chandler, a man put in his seat whose vote on the gold question can be relied upon.

Isn't this a nice showing from a good, true blue, dyed-in-the-wool Republican State like New Hampshire? and isn't it a strong endorsement of the Democratic contention against corporations in politics and of the demand for the election of Senators by the direct vote of the people to avoid this dictation, purchasing and corruption by corporate power and money syndicates? Chandler's wail is an argument for Democracy.

Some time ago the Mexican Government offered a prize of $100,000 to the person who would discover a successful yellow fever serum. A commitee of physicans appointed by the Government is so well satisfied with the results of the work of Dr. Angel Billinzaghi, a young Italian specialist, who has been experimenting Vera Cruz for several years, and effected many cures, that part of the reward will paid now, and the rest of it later after he has made some experiments with various forms of the disease.

LINCOLN'S PROPHECY.

In writing to a friend about the close of the war between the States, Abraham Lincoln drew the following gloomy picture of the future as it appeared to him:

"I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxious for the safety of the country than ever before, even in the midst of war."

This was prophetic, but it did not require the gift of prophecy to speak as Mr. Lincoln then spoke. The things which he feared had already begun to happen. The foundations of great fortunes had been laid out of the profits made in many instances out of the war. Great railroad and other combinations had been already formed and entered as dictators into legislative halls of States and nation. Money had already begun to play its part in buying and corrupting voters and law makers, so that when Lincoln gave expression to his fears he was peering into the future, upon which the light of the past was shining.

The money power then controlled the Republican party as it does now, but it was not as mighty then as it is now for it has been fostered and strengthened by the nursing and favors shown it by the party which it controlled. There never has been an election since Lincoln's time in which the Republican party was not backed by the money power, and never an election in which it did not draw on that power for the money to carry elections.

If Lincoln were living to-day he might possibly be astonished at the almost literal fulfilment of his prophecy, a fulfilment true in every respect save as to the actual destruction of the Republic, the undermining of which has been progressing steadily. The Republic still exists in name and form; we vote, elect men to office, have our courts, &c., but money rules the man and money wielded by corporations and selfish interests is monarch. With the strides that money and imperialism are making it will be only a question of time, unless checked, when Lincoln's prophecy as to the destruction of the Republic will be verified.

A COUPLE OF SAMPLE TRUSTS.

Notwithstanding the assertion that there are no such things as trusts, but simply "combinations of capital,"—which are really "good" things—it is interesting to learn how some of those "combinations of capital"—which are not trusts—operate and squeeze the public. The New York World throws some light on the glass trust or—as Hanna puts it—"combination of capital."

"The history of widow-glass industry for 20 years has been a history of a succession of pools, lockouts, agreements fixing prices and rates of wages on one side, and on the other of strikes and their accompaniments.

"On account of our national facilities we ought to be make the best glass in the world, but we make poor glass for which the consumer pays double price.

"The American Glass Company was formed in 1895. It was a selling agent for agent for 85 per cent of the factories. It was succeeded in October, 1896, by the American Window Class Company. The capital of this corporation is $17,000,000. The value of the property represented by the capital is about $6,000,000. Since 1895 the prices of windowglass have been about doubled.

"It is stated in a glass manufactures' periodical that the pool made $700,000 in 1866, $1,750,000 in 1867 and $2,000,000 in 1898.

"The glass-makers take the full benefit of their enormous protection, and as foreign glass costs more in the interior than on the seaboard by reason of the cost of transportation, consumers of American glass in the interior pay more for the domestic article than do consumers on the coast. A box of glass, for example, costs at Pittsburg 14 cents more than the Boston price.

"The duty on glass is between 80 and 100 per cent.

"Besides this great trust we have the following trusts in the glass industry:

"The Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, with a capital of $10,000,000. It has about doubled prices in the last two years. It pays very low wages—from $1.35 to $1.80 per day.

"The National Manufacturers' Association has advanced its prices 10 to 15 per cent.

"The National Glass Company is new. It is a combination of makers of tableware and has $4,000,000 capital.

"The Macbeth-Evans Glass Company owns about half the producing capacity of lamp chimney plants."

In France the Government places a tax on windows and doors looking upon streets, and derives a large revenue from it. In this country the Government doesn't tax windows and doors, but it gives "combinations of capital" a monopoly, which enables them to do the taxing and put the revenue in their own coffers, and the tax they impose is a heavier one than that imposed by the French Government. They do this thing better in France, for the Republic gets the benefit of the tax and not a few favored corporations.

The American Steel and Wire Trust—or "combination of capital" is another sample. It was organized in January, 1899, with an alleged capital of $90,000,000. It is protected by high tariff duties. Last year it exported seven hundred tons of its daily product. It supplied England with 60 per cent. of its imports of wire. During that year it raised the price of wire nails sold at home from $2.55 to $4.13 a keg. It was selling nails in Europe at $2 a keg, while it was charging home purchasers $3.55 a keg for the same kind of nails. It was and is protected from the competition of the manufacturers of those countries into which it ships its products, by a practically prohibitive tariff.

Of course the Glass Trust does not get its protection without paying something for it, neither does the American Steel and Wire Trust. They, with others of the same kind, pay for the favors shown them by contributing freely to Republican campaign funds to help keep the party of "progress and prosperity" in power. They pay to Hanna now, but they get back what they pay a hundredfold from the home purchasers of their products.

The New York Sun quotes ex-President Harrison as saying he didn't approve of taking the Philippines, but as we were there he would "make the best of a bad matter," and wants to know how that compares with the position of Mr. Bryan. It doesn't compare with it at all, for Bryan doesn't believe that best can be made of a bad matter. If Gen. Harrison had said that he didn't approve of the pirating of a ship, but after the piracy had been committed he would make "the best of a bad matter" by standing by the pirates and aiding them to hold on to the loot, his position would be just as moral and just as logical?

A Kansas Democrat, whose wife presented him with her sixteenth child—a boy—announced this fact by letter to Wm. J. Bryan and asked him to name the recruit. Mr. Bryan thought that in a family where there was so much Democracy there should be a Thomas Jefferson, and now there is. Talk about Democracy playing out in this country.

Miss Lula Day, the Jacksonville, Ill., girl who is said to have told some other girl, that somebody told her, that somebody said that he or she heard somebody say that Mr. Bryan got $150,000 for sliding that 16 to 1 plank into the K. C. platform, swears she never said anything of the kind and never heard anything about it. That lets Lula out.

Cold Steel or Death.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvelous power of Electric Bitters to cure Stomach and Liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c. at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store. †

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 828 East College St., Jacksonville, Ills. "Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none. Friends urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing down pain, and such distress every month but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman."

— Statesville Landmark: For four or five years a spotted crow has been seen frequently in the southeastern part of Statesville township, but it has disappeared this year.

— Statesville Mascot: The Key Manufacturing and Distilling Co. will establish The Key Furniture Company and put another furniture factory in operation here about the first of next year. The large 5 story, steam heated, brick building formerly used by them for a tobacco factory will be used for the furniture factory.

— Henderson Gold Leaf: Dr. F. R Harris, city health officer, tells us there was not a death within the corporate limits of the town during the months of September. This is a pretty good record for a town of 6,000 or more inhabitants. —— The high price of cotton is causing it to be brought to market in large quantities. The crop is short, but the difference in price will probably bring up the average, so the farmers will not come out as badly behind as they thought they would at one time.

— Raleigh News and Observer: Another Wake county tragedy has been added to the list. This one occurred about 9 o'clock Sunday night. The scene is about fifteen miles from Raleigh, near the Falls of Neuse, in the New Light section of the county. Only meagre reports of the details of the affair could be obtained here yesterday. But in the affair a man named Peter Griffin was shot and killed by Constable Samuel Mangum. The killing took place Sunday night at the home of Mr. Mangum. The cause of the killing was said here to be that Griffin cursed Mr. Mangum's wife, who is an invalid. Upon this, it is said, the trouble began, and Griffin was killed.

— Goldsboro Argus: We regret to chronicle the fatal accident which occurred to Arthur, the eighteen-year old son of Mr. J. W. Snipes, who lives one mile from Princeton, Saturday evening. Saturday evening Arthur and his brother, Jesse Snipes, went out from their home to the Smithfield and Southern R. R. junction, about two miles from Princeton, with the intention of boarding the Southern freight, which was due there about 7 o'clock, to ride to Princeton. When the train came up, Jesse, his younger brother, got on while it was standing still and Arthur waited until the train started off and then tried to get on. But in some way he lost his hold on the handle and caught hold of the coupling bar and swung to it. In passing over the frog at the junction his foot was caught and his leg torn off, but he still held on by his arms, being afraid to turn loose. By the time he had been dragged several yards, he was so weak from the loss of blood that he turned loose and fell under the car wheels, and was crushed to death instantly.

— Crisisless Candidate—The candidate was palpably nervous. Anxious friends inquired what was weighing on his mind. "There is something wrong," he said. "I have not met a crisis for two weeks." Skin Diseases.

The secret of a healthy skin and clear complexion is proper action of the bowels and liver. If the action is sluggish, the waste matter in the blood is not carried away, but is forced out through the pores of the skin. Acne, carbuncles, flesh worms, eczema, hives, pimples are the result. Nature intended the fresh, rosy complexion of youth to last. It would, if your digestion were perfect. ABBEY'S EFFERVESCENT SALT will make it so. It regulates the digestive organs and keeps them active. It keeps the system free of the matter which poisons the blood. With pure blood, clear healthy skin is assured. Bleaches and external applications do no good, their effect is merely temporary and they injure the skin. The trouble is in the blood and it can be cured only, by keeping it pure and clean.

Are those pimples and facial blemishes worth anything to you, that you don't want to get rid of them while you can?

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 9.—Sentiment on the cotton exchange was decidedly bullish all day, but in view of the near at hand government report, concerning which opinions greatly differed, few traders had the courage to operate confidently. Moreover, the presence of a cold wave along the northern border of the cotton belt led to fears of possible frost in the eastern States to night. The market started steady in tone, with prices two points higher to four points lower, this being a favorable opening considering the unsatisfactory character of Liverpool cables, and the heavy port receipts. Before midday January had been pushed to 10.11 and still later rose to 10.15, on a bad scare of shorts, together with brisk investment buying later, based on the belief that to-morrow's government report will show the lowest average crop condition on record. Whereas Europe sold on the spot call, cable orders later called for the purchase of liberal amounts of January and March cotton. Prices were sustained by pessimistic crop accounts, higher prices for spot cotton in the South and a better class of advices from spinning centers. Prospects of further cold rains in the Atlantic States had some weight, as did the claim that the State agricultural reports showed the crop outlook to be the worst in many years. Some holders took profits in the last hour under which selling the market went off to about the opening figures and closed steady with August four points lower and other months unchanged to three points higher.

PEPYS AND HIS WIFE.

A Quarrel in Which the Lady Got a Black Eye.

Mrs. Pepys was a delicate woman who suffered from frequent attacks of indisposition. Pepys was always most sympathetic and kind to her at such times. He had his meals by her bedside and "comforted her and pitied her" and showed some of the most lovable traits in his character. Once, while riding to Brampton, she was taken very ill, and on alighting at an inn at Puntingford she became so pale that Pepys was "in great horror, thinking she would have died and having," he said, "a great tryall of my love and passion for her."

Yet he was occasionally very rough and even cruel to her. Twice, when she spoke crossly to him, he pulled her by the nose and hurt her so much that the poor thing cried.

On another occasion when they were in bed, owing to some remissness on the part of one of the servants about whom Pepys complained, Mrs. Pepys made a cutting remark, which so exasperated him that he struck her violently in the face, giving her a black eye. She cried out and was in great pain, "but yet her spirit was such," he said admiringly, "as to endeavor to bite and scratch me. But I coying" (caressing with the hand), "made her leave crying and sent for butter and parsley and friends presently one with another, and I up, vexed at my heart to think at what I had done, for she was forced to lay a poultice or something to her eye all day and is black, and the people of the house observed it." However, Mrs. Pepys was too forgiving to bear malice, for the same day he stated "her eye is very bad, but she is in a very good temper to me." She was unable to go out for a fortnight, and when Pepys went to a dinner party at Sir William Batten's at Christmas time she stopped at home and played games with her servants.

Although docile and amiable enough as a rule, she could show temper on occasion, and it then generally ended in her husband giving way to her. Nothing annoyed her more than his meanness about her clothes. Once Lady Sandwich remonstrated with him about this and made him ashamed of himself.—Westminister Review.

CROOKED FACES.

Folks Don't Realize It Until the Camera Betrays Them.

"One of the principal obstacles in the way of successful portrait photography," said an old time local expert, "is the asymmetry of the average human face. The features of 99 people out of 100 are undeniably asymmetrical—in other words, the right and left sides are different in size, shape and general contour. We don't notice this variation unless our attention is attracted to it, but it is there all he same, and for some reason that I am not able to explain it is generally emphasized by the camera. 'My goodness, my face is all crooked in that picture!' is a comment that is frequently heard when ladies examine proofs. They are generally told that the effect is due to the lighting in the print and that it won't be noticeable when the photograph is finished. As a matter of fact, the retoucher can work wonders in removing the evidences of asymmetry. He can lift the corner of the mouth, soften the angle of a jaw and make both sides of the face tolerably fair 'mates' without losing the likeness.

"What I say applies, of course, to full face pictures only, for when the head is turned slightly the deviations are scarcely ever discernible. Nor does the rule hold good invariably even with the front faces. Odd as it may seem some people owe their charm of feature almost altogether to the fact of asymmetry. One of my patrons is a bewitchingly pretty little lady, yet the sides of her face are as different as if they belonged to total strangers. One eye is oblique, while the other is straight; her nostrils are not at all on a line, and her mouth has a most extraordinary twist. From those details you would suppose that she was nothing short of a monstrosity, but the very combination I have briefly outlined is the thing that gives her face an irresistible piquancy. Among men asymmetry often lends great strength to a countenance. Bismarck was a striking example of that fact, and so was Gladstone. If you are skeptical, take a full face picture of either and cover one half of it with a card. Then reverse the process and examine the other side. You will be surprised. In fact, you will discover four different men, all distinct types."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Sheridan Wit.

Thomas Sheridan, the Irish clergyman and grandfather of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist, had a great distaste for metaphysical discussions, whereas his son Tom, the actor, had a great liking for them. Tom one day tried to discuss with his father the doctrine of necessity.

"Pray, father," said he, "did you ever do anything in a state of perfect indifference—without motive, I mean, of some kind of other?"

Sheridan, who saw what was coming, said, "Yes, certainly."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, indeed."

"What, total indifference—total, entire, thorough indifference?"

"Yes, total, entire, thorough indifference."

"My dear father," said Tom, "tell me what it is that you can do with (mind!) total, entire, thorough indifference?"

"Why, listen to you, Tom," said Sheridan.

A Comer.

"They say," said Mrs. Oldrox, "that Mr. Wisherley is a coming man."

"I should say he was!" her husband snarled. "He's been coming every night ever since Mabel got back from Florida."—Chicago Times-Herald.

She Was Sure.

She was sure, she said,
That she never would wed;
That she had not the least inclination
To take to herself,
For love or for pelf,
A husband, no odds what his station.
She would talk every day
In a masterly way
(And her speech was as good as a tonic)
Of the beauty that lies
If we but ope our eyes
In affection that's purely Platonic.

It was certain, she claimed,
Hearts would cease to be maimed
And lie around bleeding and broken
If people would choose
To fall in with the views
Of which the old Greek sage had spoken.
This falling in love,
Cooing round like a dove,
Was worse than the plague called bubonic,
And yet the disease
Could be conquered with ease
By the use of affection Platonic.

Perhaps you will judge
That this talk was all fudge,
But remember she had just left college,
Where they taught her to speak
French, Latin and Greek
And gave her but little real knowledge.
That was why she would sit
And think she was IT
While she exercised power mnemonic,
Recalling the while,
With a confident smile,
What she'd read of affection Platonic.

* * * * * *

Ten years passed away,
And I met her one day,
When greatly I wondered and wondered,
And was almost afraid
She was not the same maid
Who so loudly 'gainst Hymen had thundered.
For she had with her then
Three sturdy young men—
That is, three young men embryonic—
Who called her "mamma;"
Whence I judged their papa
Was not stuck on affection Platonic.
—Minneapolis Journal.

SCIENCE OF DREAMS.

Results of a Series of Experiments by a German Professor.

Sleep is not "the brother of death," as the poets have said from Homer to Shelley; but, on the contrary, "sleep is the brother of life." So Professor Baschide asserts, who, in an article in the Uaturwissenschaftliche Rundschau, gives an account of his "experiments upon 86 dreamers." His subjects were of various ages, from 1 year to 80 years.

In some cases his observations were continued during the whole night and in others for a great part of the night. He watched and recorded every change of physiognomy, every movement of the limbs and every speech or sound uttered by the unconscious dreamers. The depth of the sleep was also carefully measured, while from time to time the dreamers were awakened, but without their own perception that the awakening was intentional.

The professor obtained, as he writes at length, the following results: (1) We dream throughout the whole of our sleep, even in that deepest sleep which we imagine to be "dreamless." (2) There is an intimate connection between the depth of our sleep and the character of our dreams. The deeper the sleep the further back travels the retrospect into the past experiences of life and also the more remote are the contents of the dream from reality. In a light sleep, on the contrary, the subject of the dream relates to the experiences and excitements of the day and has a character of probability. (3) In a comatose sleep the professor thinks there may perhaps be no dreaming. (4) Persons who assert that they do not dream "are the victims of physical delusion." (5) Dreams of a moderate character remain longest in the memory. The wilder the dream the sooner it is forgotten.—London News.

THE STONE OF GRATITUDE.

An Old Roman Legend That Treats of the Topas.

The topaz is called the stone of gratitude, and the old Roman books record the following legend from which the stone derives this attribute:

The blind Emperor Theodosius used to hang a brazen gong before his palace gates and sit beside it on certain days, hearing and putting to rights the grievances of any of his subjects. Those who wished for his advice and help had but to sound the gong, and immediately admission into the presence of Cæsar was obtained.

One day a great snake crept up to the gate and struck the brazen gong with her coils, and Theodosius gave orders that no one should molest the creature and bade her tell him her wish. The snake bent her crest lowly in homage and straightaway told the following tale:

Her nest was at the base of the gateway tower, and while she had gone to find food for her young brood a strange beast covered with sharp needles had invaded her home, killed the nestlings and now held possession of the little dwelling. Would Cæsar grant her justice?

The emperor gave orders for the porcupine to be slain and the mother to be restored to her desolate nest. Night fell, and the sleeping world had forgotten the emperor's kindly deed, but with the early dawn a great serpent glided into the palace, up the steps and into the royal chamber and laid upon each of the emperor's closed eyelids a gleaming topaz. When Emperor Theodosius awoke, he found he was no longer blind, for the mother snake had paid her debt of gratitude.—Exchange.

Doesn't Travel For Fun.

Far from being the great autocrat, the arbiter of things of magnitude, the president of a railway system, be it great or small, is a dealer in trifles, with a consideration for everything. Every accident, large or small; every occurrence by which the road is to lose a dollar or to make a dollar, comes to the notice of the president. The successful head of a railroad is the one who considers the details. He is the man who makes the profits, and he is the man who has to face the music at the directors' meeting.

When you see the bright, smooth running traveling palaces of the railway president trailing along behind the long string of passenger coaches, you can be safe in the opinion that the occupant has not the softest snap on earth. You can also rest assured that if he is a success in his sphere he is not traveling for fun.—Omaha World-Herald.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 10.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN A KENTUCKY COURT ROOM.

Trial of Henry E. Youtsey Charged With Being a Principal in the Murder of Gov. William Goebel.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

GEORGETOWN, KY., October 9.—One of the most remarkable scenes ever enacted in a Kentucky court occurred to-night in the trial of Henry E. Youtsey, charged with being a principal in the shooting of Governor Goebel, the defendant himself being the chief participant. The court room was crowded at the time and the excitement was intense. Detective Armstrong of Louisville had just told of his talks with Youtsey before and after his arrest. Then Arthur Goebel was put on the stand and Judge Ben Williams, who for the first time appeared for the prosecution, did the questioning. Arthur said:

"I talked with Youtsey the day he was arrested late in the afternoon in the jail in Frankfort in reference to the murder of my brother."

Just at this point Youtsey arose behind his attorneys and in a loud voice said: "It is untrue; it is a lie; I never spoke a word to that man in my life nor he to me."

Colonel Crawford told him to be quiet and sit down and others took hold of him.

"I will not sit down. I never said a word to that man; it is untrue."

He was shouting by this time and every one was becoming excited. Youtsey's wife sprang to his side and while endeavoring to make him sit down could be heard saying: "Now you have killed my husband; I suppose you are satisfied."

Then Youtsey hysterically shouted again: "I am innocent. No, there is no blood on my hands. These men are swearing my life away."

Two or three deputy sheriffs went over and grabbed him. He struggled wildly and said:

"Let me alone—I will not sit down."

Arthur Goebel meanwhile sat sphynx-like in the witness chair and never turned his head.

Finally, after Youtsey was forced into a seat, he shouted again:

"Goebel is not dead—all the demons in hell could not kill him."

"Mr. Sheriff, if the defendant does not behave himself, put handcuffs on him," said Judge Cantrill.

Meanwhile the audience could not be forced to keep their seats until the judge threatened to fine those who stood up. Youtsey settled back in his chair, closed his eyes and seemed in a state of collapse. He waved his handkerchief above his head in an aimless sort of way and groaned and cried hysterically.

Finally quiet was restored and Judge Williams asked Arthur Goebel another question, when Colonel Crawford asked a postponement of the trial until to-morrow on account of the defendant's condition.

Judge Cantrill said he could not see any cause or reason for the defendant's outbreak, but in justice to his attorneys he would postpone the case until to-morrow. Mr. Franklin said the commonwealth had not the slightest objection to adjourning until to-morrow and court so adjourned.

Youtsey still occupied his chair, with his eyes closed, apparently in a half fainting condition. After the crowd passed out Jailor Reed and his deputies carried Youtsey to the jail, as he was unable to walk.

Various reasons are assigned for his outbreak, the first being his long confinement and that the strain of the trial caused him to become hysterical and lose control of himself. Another is that he is really demented, as shown by his remark that Goebel is not dead. He is being attended by physicians and relatives at the jail and his condition is deemed critical.

CABINET DISCUSS CHINESE PROBLEM

Definite Conclusion Reached As to the Reply to Be Made to the French Note.

CONGER FURNISHES A LIST

Of Prominent Chinese Officials Responsible for Assaults Upon the Legations in Pekin—U. S. Troops Withdrawal—The Emperor.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, October 9.—The cabinet meeting to-day, which occupied about two and a half hours, was devoted almost exclusively to a discussion of the Chinese situation. Special consideration was given to the French note and it is understood that a more or less definite conclusion was reached as to the nature of the reply which will be made by this government, but it has not yet been put in diplomatic form. Its purport will not be made public for the present.

It developed to-day that Minister Conger, in compliance with a suggestion from Secretary Hay, had submitted to the State Department a list of ten or twelve names of Chinese officials who were prominent in the Boxers' movement against the foreigners and in a great measure were responsible for the assaults upon the legations in Pekin. These officials, Mr. Conger believes, should be included with Prince Tuan and others in any punishments which are to be inflicted upon those who took a prominent part in the Pekin outrages. It is not unlikely that the position of this government in regard to the punishment of these officials will be stated the in reply to the French note.

U. S. Troops in China.

General Chaffee continues to execute the programme for the withdrawal of the military forces already outlined, and he has notified the War Department that he will have all his men except the legation guard out of China inside of a fortnight.

The American troops will take no further part in any military operations in China, unless they are attacked, which is not believed to be probable. The officials do not credit the Russian admiral's report that they participated in the taking of Shan Kai-Kwan, as the sense of General Chaffee's orders was directly contrary to such participation.

The Chinese minister said to-day that if the Powers regarded it as essential that the Emperor and Empress Dowager should return to Pekin, he was quite confident this could be brought about, first by giving positive assurances for the personal safety of their majesties, and then, as plain evidence of this assurance, directing that the bulk of the allied forces now at Pekin be withdrawn to Tien Tsin, Yang Tsun, of some other point, leaving only a few hundred troops at Pekin as a guard.

French Officials Elated.

PARIS, October 9.—It is semi officially announced to day that the news received here from China is now more reassuring than the English dispatches make out; that an agreement between the Powers will be arrived at on the basis of M. Del Casse's note that the reported arrival of Li Hung Chang at Pekin has been confirmed, and that confirmation has also been received of the degradation of Prince Tuan.

The officials of the French Foreign Office are elated over the reception which France's note has secured in Europe and it is hopeful and sanguine that it will result in a common understanding which will permit of early peace negotiations. France, however, has not yet received the formal reply of any Power, but the verbal statements made by the various ambassadors on the presentation of the note led the government to believe it will be accepted everywhere except in Great Britain and the United States. These Powers agree to certain features while objecting to others, but do not take a stand which is inimical, generally, to the propositions of M. Del Casse.

The Temps' account of the cabinet council says M. Del Casse submitted dispatches from the French representatives abroad, showing the negotiations with the Powers are continuing under good conditions and that this permits of hope of a favorable solution of the questions being considered.

Emperor and Empress.

PEKIN, October 6.—Prince Ching has received an edict from the Emperor, dated October 1st, in reply to a note sent at the request of the legations, saying he will return to Pekin as soon as the negotiations take a favorable turn.

Trustworthy Chinese reports say that the Dowager Empress is seriously ill at Tai Yuan Fu, province of Shan Si, and the free hand of the Emperor in affairs of State of late is regarded as confirmatory of these reports.

Pao Ting Fu Expedition.

The Pao Ting Fu expedition is waiting for the Germans, who are not ready to start.

It is reported that there are 12,000 Chinese imperial troops at Pao Ting Fu.

Germany and Russia.

BERLIN, October 9.—The Post says an agreement exists between Germany and Russia by which Germany is to control the railroad from Pekin to Yang Tsun and Russia is to control the road from Yang Tsun to Long Ku. The Post also denies that Germany will send an expedition to Sian Fu.

Britain's Humble Position.

LONDON, October 10.—Dr. Morrison, the Pekin correspondent of the Times, writing on October 5th, says:

"Russia, in pursuance of her policy of being China's only friend, has restored the Tsung Li Yamen to the Chinese. Count von Waldersee's decision to divide the railway administration between Russia and Germany shows the humble position Great Britain is contented to occupy in North China.

The Times has the following from Tien Tsin, dated October 7: "Three French battalions started yesterday for Pao Ting Fu. The British are waiting for the Germans, but may start without them."

The Shanghai correspondent of the Times, wiring Monday, says it is reported there that the allies have arrived at Pao Ting Fu without opposition.

Punishment of Leaders.

PEKIN, October 7.—A response to the German demand has been transmitted to Li Hung Chang. This says that Ying Mien, president of the censorate, Yang Yi, assistant grand secretary and president of the civil board, and Chao Shu Chiao, president of the board of punishment, will be decapitated; that Prince Chwang, Duke Tsai Lan and Prince Yih will be sentenced to life imprisonment, and that Prince Tuan will be banished to the imperial military post roads on the Siberian frontier, as a further punishment for aiding the "Boxers."

The Imperial Court.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—The Chinese assert that the Governor of Shan Tung and the Yung Tso viceroys have sent a joint memorial to the Empress, declaring it to be impossible to guarantee the dispatch of money and provisions to Si Ngan Fu, and threatening to resign unless the court returns to Pekin.

Li Hung Chang's secretary reports that foreign troops, supposed to be British, have already arrived at Pao Ting Fu.

It is said that Li Hung Chang has advised the Emperor to return to Pekin, on the ground that the Powers can stop supplies from reaching the province of Shen Si.

LONDON, October 10.—The Standard's Tien Tsin correspondent, wiring Sunday, says:

"I hear that the Chinese are concentrating at Hwang Lu Pass, leading into the province of Shan Si, with the intention of opposing any attempt of the allies to pursue the Imperial court."

The Berlin correspondent of the Standard understands that the Chinese Imperial edicts are regarded there with skepticism and that Count von Waldersee has been instructed to resume operations.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 9.—A complete list of Protestant missionaries known to have been killed from the beginning of the Boxer movement to September 5, has been received by the American Bible Society, from Rev. FIRE CHIEFS' CONVENTION.

The Assemblage in Charleston--Addresses of Welcome—Interesting Exercises.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 9.—President Quigley, of Syracuse, called the twenty-eighth annual convention of the International Fire Chiefs to order at 10 o'clock to-day in the German Artillery Hall. Addresses of welcome were made and responded to in a hearty manner. The large hall, seating 1,500 persons, was filled and the opening exercises were very interesting. Chief McAfee of Baltimore, Chief Quigley of Syracuse, Mayor Smythe of Charleston, Fireman Grace of Charleston and Chief Ryan of Norfolk were among the speakers.

Special committees reported at this afternoon's session, and to-night the firemen heard an interesting address by F. O. Affeld, of the International Board of Fire Underwriters and manager of the Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance Company, of New York.

The programme for to-morrow includes the test of apparatus and an excursion to historic Fort Sumter.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN.

Report of John G. Woolley, the Nominee for President.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—John G. Woolley, Prohibition nominee for President, who has just returned from a nine days' trip through the South on a special train, this evening made the following statement:

"The meetings in Indiana have been the greatest of the series so far in comparison to former meetings in this State. The peculiarity of our work in Indiana is that we seem to draw our converts about evenly from the two old parties.

"The trip of the special train increases daily in interest. Our heaviest work begins to-night at the Chicago meeting. On the Eastern trip we will hold nearly double as many meetings a day as we did on the Western and Southern trips."

DISAPPEARING GUN CARRIAGES.

U. S. Ordnance Board Recommend That No More Be Made.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, October 9.—The Board of Ordnance and Fortifications has been holding a protracted session in Washington and adjourned to day after taking important action regarding disappearing gun carriages. The board has recommended to the Secretary of War that no more disappearing gun carriages be made. There has been much contention among army officers for some time, especially among artillery officers, as to the value of disappearing gun carriages upon fortifications for coast defence. The concensus of opinion has been that the disappearing carriage was good for low sites, but the majority seemed to think that it was not best for high sites. The action of the board, if sustained by the Secretary of War, will be of far-reaching importance in the future of coast defences.

FORGERIES ALLEGED.

The Chief Money Order Clerk in the New York Postoffice Arrested.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 10.—Richard J. Carroll, who for a number of years has been the chief money order clerk in branch "E," of the postoffice in this city, was arrested to-day for forging and raising money orders. Bail was set at $2,500.

The amount of the alleged forgeries is not yet known, but is believed to be very large.

BRYAN GREETED BY BIG CROWDS.

The Issues of the Campaign Discussed at Many Points in Illinois.

THRONGS OF WAITING PEOPLE

Republican Misrepresentation--Evil Work of the Trusts—Imperialism and Expansion Denounced—Reply to Criticism of His Campaign.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

QUINCY, ILL., Oct. 9.—All members of the Bryan party were sleeping soundly this morning when at 6.30 o'clock the train pulled into this city. They were not, however, permitted to continue their slumbers long, owing to the calls of the crowd for Bryan and the beating on the windows. Mr. Bryan hastily donned his clothes, drank a cup of coffee and was escorted to a carriage for the long drive to Washington Park, where, notwithstanding the early hour, there was a throng of waiting people, many of whom had been standing in the chilly air since daylight. Mr. Bryan spoke on the general issues of the campaign, saying that so large a crowd at so early an hour of the day indicated that the people were interested in themselves rather than in him.

Republican Misrepresentation.

Mr. Bryan referred to an editorial on the pension question which appeared in an Omaha paper with which he was formerly connected. He said that the editorial referred to was printed long before he was connected with the paper; "yet, I doubt not," he said, that every old soldier will receive a letter in which it will be stated that I am the author of the editorial."

"I have already received one," shouted an old soldier in the crowd.

"I am not surprised," said Mr. Bryan. "I know that they have misrepresented everything that could be misrepresented. To-day they have not the least hope of carrying this election unless they have a bigger campaign fund than they have ever had before, and they can coerce every voter that can be coerced."

Republicans Reducing Values.

He paid especial attention to the farmers, saying that even though there had been advance of some of the farm products, the increase in price of other articles of consumption had been so much greater as to more than neutralize the advance in farm commodities.

Taking up the statement that money from this country is being loaned in Europe, he said: "Why don't they buy American lands instead of sending their surplus money abroad?" and then replied to his own question by saying that the only reply that could be made was that the Republican policy was reducing values. A private individual could not put his money in manufacturing enterprise for fear that his concern would be sold to a trust and that he would be squeezed out. He declared that it is his desire to destroy all private monopoly, because he does not want to see the doors of opportunity closed against the boys of the country. "Give the boy a chance," he said. "Give him an opportunity to exert his own industry and his own ability and he will make his own way, for we have the best boys in the world."

Speech at Carthage.

CARTHAGE, Ill., Oct. 9.—In speaking here, Mr. Bryan took cognizance of the criticisms of his personal participation in the campaign, saying:

"I have been criticised for going before the people, as a presidential candidate and discussing the questions before the people. According to my understanding of politics the citizen is the sovereign and the officeholder is the servant of the people, and the citizens have a right to know what the candidates think of public questions. They have a right to come into contact with their public officials and if a candidate loses votes because the people get acquainted with him, he ought not to complain, for it is better to find him out before the election than afterwards, if he is bad. The right to participate in government is one of the inalienable rights, a right that you Republicans recognized when Lincoln was your leader, and a right that you never repudiated until you fell from Lincoln down to Hanna.

"If you hear that I am in favor of imperialism just because it is a good issue to get votes, I want you to remember that on the 14th day of June, 1899, when your papers said everybody wanted expansion, I protested against imperialism. At that time Democratic friends told me my course would be unpopular, but my answer was that when the Declaration of Independence was repealed I would be out of politics and it did not make any particular difference about the time of my going out."

A Personal Matter.

PEORIA, ILL., October 9.—Mr. Bryan took occasion here to answer the charge that he is being paid for his speeches. In part he said:

"I am not as rich a man as you would imagine from reading the Republican papers. I find it difficult to reconcile their statements about my financial condition. One time they say that I am so ambitious that I would spend all my money to be president and another that I am so avaricious that I will not make a speech unless I am paid for it. I notice a criticism in the papers that the people of the towns through which our train passes have contributed to the expenses of the train, and it was suggested that it was for my benefit. I need not tell you that I receive nothing for making speeches; but, my friends, I want you to know that when men ride on trains they must either pay or else the railroad companies must furnish them with free rides. We do not want a railroad to carry our train free through the State and therefore the State committee paid about a thousand dollars for the train for yesterday and to day. We believe it is better for people to pay their way and to be independent than to have corporations run them after election. I would a great deal rather have Republican papers criticise me because people along the road pay the expenses of the train than to receive free rides from the railroad companies and have corporations run me if elected because they furnished the trains."

Made Sixteen Addresses.

JOLIET, ILL., October 9,—Mr. Bryan concluded the last speech of the day here to-night at a few minutes before 11 o'clock. He began at Quincy at 8 o'clock this morning and made sixteen addresses during the day. The audiences were generally large, but those at Peoria, Quincy and Joliet were especially so.

The meeting at Joliet was held in the court house grounds before an immense crowd. The Bryan train did not arrive until after 10 o'clock. After the meeting Mr. Bryan left for Chicago.

To-morrow he will begin his tour of Michigan, Benton Harbor being his step step.

LABOR DEMONSTRATION BY STRIKING MINERS.

Fully Six Thousand Men in the Parade at Shamokin, Pa.—Address by President Mitchell.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SHAMOKIN, PA., October 9.—President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, who came here to-day to take part in a labor demonstration, was welcomed in a most enthusiastic manner by the thousands of striking mine workers in this section of the Schuylkill valley. The city was profusely decorated and all the stores and other business houses in the vicinity closed at noon and thousands of people came from surrounding towns to take part in the parade and to listen to Mr. Mitchell's speech at a mass meeting which was held after the parade.

The parade was started at 2 o'clock from the east end of Shamokin, and fully 6,000 strikers were in line. When the procession reached the soldiers and sailors monument, where the mass meeting was held, a large crowd had already assembled there to hear the labor president speak.

President Mitchell was enthusiastically received when he arose to address the assemblage. He spoke of the enthusiasm displayed by the men throughout the anthracite strike region and went into the situation as it now stands. In referring to the prospective ending of the strike, he said:

"Every other strike that has taken place in the anthracite region has been declared off by your officers. Heretofore, when men went on strike they remained out for a time and then the chief executive or the executive board declared the strike off without consulting the wishes of the strikers. I want to say, as I have said before, that this strike will never end until the miners through delegates in convention end it for themselves. We have called a convention and you men are invited to send delegates there. You are invited to pass judgment on the operators' proposition. If you believe that they act in good faith; if you believe ten per cent. to be enough; if you believe that they will pay the ten per cent. for a year, then you must decide whether you will return to work. On the other hand, if you reject the offer and continue on strike, John Mitchell will be there to help you do it.

"I do not expect that this one strike will eradicate all the wrongs from which you suffer. I do not believe that the accumulation of forty years of injustice can be wiped out at once; but I do believe that you have established an organization here that with each succeeding year will give you improved conditions of employment."

WHITE STAR LINER OCEANIC

Had a Narrow Escape from Shipwreck Off the Coast of Ireland.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—A special cable dispatch from Queenstown to the Evening World says:

"The giant White Star Liner Oceanic, which arrived here to-day, had a narrow escape from shipwreck off the coast off Ireland. While approaching the coast and trying to pick up the Fastnet light, what appeared to be a fog bank suddenly lifted and showed land dead ahead. The breakers could be plainly seen crashing on the rocks and the vessel touched bottom, but Captain Cameron immediately stopped his engines, reversed them and backed into deep water without the ship being injured. It was only owing to the care of the captain that a terrible disaster was averted."

BRITAIN'S FOREIGN POLICY

As Announced by Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, speaking at Stourbridge, said:

"Great Britain's foreign policy, as I sum it up, is to remain on friendly terms with every great country in Europe and on something more than friendly terms with the United States."

Mr. Chamberlain ridiculed the attempt of the opposition leaders to hold him up as a bogey to foreign nations. "Great Britain's foreign policy," he exclaimed, "is in the hands of Lord Salisbury, and I have not the presumption to meddle with it."

MISSING BANK CLERK.

A Defaulter to the Amount of Fifty Thousand Dollars.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 9.—P. H. Gilhooley, counsel for the Elizabethport, N. J., Banking Company, announced to-day that William Schriber, a missing clerk of the bank, was a defaulter to the amount of $50,000 and that the bank directors had made good the amount of the shortage. Among the directors is United States Senator John L. Keane.

Schriber who had been in the employ of the banking company since its incorporation about ten years ago started from Elizabeth on August 2, and was supposed to be on his vacation. While he was away his accounts were examined and the shortage was discovered.

GREAT RUSH EXPECTED.

The Colville Indian Reservation Will Be Opened to Settlement To-day.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SPOKANE, WASH., October 9.—The north half of the Colville Indian reservation will be opened to settlement at noon to-morrow. Hundreds of homeseekers, are already on the land and many are waiting close to the borders. Some "sooners" have already erected cabins and declare their intention to hold valuable claims with Winchesters, if necessary. A great rush is expected at the Spokane and Waterville land offices to-morrow, but little trouble is looked for, owing to the great area of the tract thrown open, whichis about equal in size to the State of Delaware.

Over seven hundred meetings, with double that number of speeches, have been arranged by the Republican State committee for the last four weeks of the campaign in New York State, in addition to the two flying trips through the State by Governor Roosevelt and Chauncey M. Depew.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Oct. 9.—A special to the Times Union-Citizen from Lake Butler, Fla., to day says:

"Harry Anthony, one of the most prominent young business men of this section, brother of Mark Anthony, a leading physician, was accidentally killed this morning at 1 o'clock by this younger brother. Marvin Anthony. The brothers had been in a fox chase until midnight and stopped at the country home of Dr. Anthony, three miles out, for rest during the remainder of the night. Harry Anthony handed his gun to Marvin to hold while he unlocked the door. The gun accidentally discharged and Harry was killed instantly, the entire load entering his neck and head.

Marvin Anthony immediately became frantic with grief and attempted to kill himself. He was prevented from doing so by their colored servant. He is now carefully guarded and his friends are yet afraid he will take his life. The family is one of the wealthiest in the State.
